Taking Action Against Hate

How many times have you heard young people complain about someone making an anti-Semitic joke or remark? How often did they tell you that they didn't know how to respond or were afraid to speak up?

If we want to empower our youth to take action when they encounter anti-Semitism, we must give them the right tools.

The Anti-Defamation League's Confronting Anti-Semitism Program helps Jewish youth, their families, and other community members to develop the essential skills needed to:

- Confront insensitive or hateful comments and behaviors
- Challenge anti-Semitic myths with facts
- Respond to hate-motivated incidents in school and the community at large
- Utilize national and regional resources to fight anti-Semitism on all levels

"My nightmare began in 8th grade. A group of students in my school singled me out making anti-Jewish jokes. I couldn't enter a classroom without someone giving the 'Heil Hitler' salute. But then I participated in ADL's Confronting Anti-Semitism Program and now I have the courage to speak out for myself and for others."
